PCF BATCH 03 – Task 03

Case Study 1:

Description: A communication gap exists between two colleagues — one from Generation Z and the other aged 60. The Gen Z employee tends to dominate conversations, prefers sharing their perspective first, and does not actively listen to the senior colleague's input. This has started affecting collaboration and mutual understanding.

Instructions:

- Identify the key communication issues in this scenario.
- Analyze how generational differences may contribute to the problem.
- Suggest practical and professional solutions to improve active listening, respect, and teamwork between both colleagues.

Case Study 2:

Description: A female intern frequently gets interrupted by her colleague whenever she tries to share her ideas or contribute during meetings and discussions. This behavior limits her ability to express her thoughts and affects team dynamics.

Instructions:

- Identify the core issue presented in this scenario.
- Analyze possible reasons behind this behavior (communication style, unconscious bias, lack of respect, etc.).
- Suggest professional and practical strategies to address the situation and promote a respectful and inclusive work environment.
